week, Mr E B Thomas being the purchaser, on private terms

The schr Excelsior arrived yesterday from San Francisco, but without any later mail than was received by the Ella. We are therefore without later quotations.

We are reported to be in error last week in noting an advance in Manila basis of sugar, taken from the San Francisco papera, as advices under date of November 5th say that "there has been a drop in Manila; present price is £13,15s, equal to $6.48."

This being one of the "days we celebrate," all Government offices will be closed and the city will assume generally hor holiday attire, unless interrupted by the early arrival of the atmr Australia, which may be considered due this evening.

Mr. Green we are told was censured by the foreign community for putting his foot in the same boat as the then existing Ministry, which matter of this letter are not given. The King then, "by virtue of his intelligence underis true. Our writer goes on to say that the new Foreign Minister was "full of cunning" Manlea-inasmuch as "he thought he saw a sleight mistake" in the letter sent to the three powers. Next one of his colleagues saw that he (Mr. Green) "was no real friend to the Hawaiian: "no ground whatever is shown for the statement, but it seems probable that the next assertion, viz, that he, Mr. Green, "censured the action taken respecting the Representatives of Foreign powers" is fully borne out by subsequent proceedings in the Foreign office. This writer goes on to assume, "that though it is "true in reference to this thing, there is reason "to doubt as to the right or wrong of the action taken by the Ministry, but no one will "deny * * that the wrong done by those who have been complained of viz, the Foreign Representatives is very paramount." Now we do deny emphatically that any wrong was done by the Foreign Representatives. They saw that the influence gained, no one knows how, by Moreno was distinctly prejudicial to the interests they were sent to protect.

The Representatives of England and France certainly had no personal pique, we might almost say, no personal knowledge of Moreno, when upon public, not upon private grounds, they joined their American colleague in declining to treat with him as Foreign Mi ister. It must be remembered that these Re-presentatives are accredited directly to the King, that the Minister for Foreign Affairs is their official channel of communication, so that when this writer wanders off into who did or did not want or seek for the "much coveted office " of the Interior, he is blundering two separate matters together. Here follows a de-fence and laudation of the Bush Ministry. "Business" says our apologist, 'progressed
"with no friction, -works to increase the pros"perity of the various districts were taken ap,-the King lived comfortably. Lazarus

Here there seems to be something to ponder, indeed to puzzle over. We knew of no diminu-tion of "triction in public business" what-ever the phrase may mean. We do not know of any new activity as to public works, or what any new activity as to public works, or what districts received the increase of prosperity.

If "the King lived comfortably" we are truly and loyally rejoiced to hear it, so much so indeed, that we should like to learn what were the occasions of Royal discomfort before and since the model six weeks, for we are told farther on, that "for the time this hope is dead." But here intervenes the strange see dead." But here intervenes the strange sen-tence about "Lazārus." Is it parable, poetic form of expression or what? does it mean that the poor Hawaiian lived as well as the rich? if so, we question its correctness; or does it mean that Lazarus dined with the pluralist place holder and that if the Bush-Lazarus contract had been carried out, not only might Lazarus have eaten at the same table as the rich man, but might soon have been in a poattion to return the compliment.

Continuing, we learn that then for the first time was a beginning made to lift up the children of the land, then for the first time was considered the way how to really save the Life of the People. We must here ask is this true ? if not it is false, and designedly, malicionaly false.

Can anyone, knowing the barest outline of Hawaiian history for the last seventy years, say that it was during the short, disastrous period under review that then "for the first lime" a beginning was made to lift up the children of the land!"

children of the land!"

Then, the assertion, "but for the time, this hope is dead." If this means anything it means that the only hope for the Hawaiian race lies in the restoration of the Bush Ministry, and it seems sufficiently obvious that the bus its. We are then informed that "the Foreign Reresentatives met under the direction of the inister of Foreign Affairs" and that, " the Minister of the Interior was seat for to meet with them, as though that were a Judicial Court, but it was said to be only for friendly consultation." This of course is a misreof by the Representatives was read clause by clause, and Mr. Bush admitted that the grievances alleged were for the most part groundless, or frivolous, but justified himself for his worst suggestion which could be made; and we are most decidedly averse to—and feel sure that we express the opinion of the whole community in saying so—any attempt to invite the King to exercise any diplomatic or treatymaking power. It would detract from his making power. It would detract from his dignity, curtail his liberty of action, and inter-of the Express. The proprietor and editor of the Advertiser and Express complains that we incorrectly and unfairly represent the translated articles as his actual sentiments and utterances. Now what his actual sentiments on any particular subject may be, we cannot always divine; they depend too much on local and temporary circumstances, but what his utterances are, is another thing. Those articles which we translated previously to the "Some Enlightenment" papers, were obviously the work of a writer who speaks and thinks in English, though he prints in Hawaiian, and when re-translated come at once into good, nervous grammatical English, and we think we are not far wrong in considering them as the utterances certainly, the sentiments perhaps, of the editor of the Advertiser-Express.

The "Some Enlightenment" papers on the other hand bear distinct internal evidence of being the work of a writer who habitually thinks, speaks and writes in the Hawaiian language and when they are translated, show at once their non-English origin, as any one may see for himself, if he takes the trouble to read. We believe our interpretation to be strictly and conscientously correct, and if the editor of the Advertiser-Express would publish our combents in Hawaiian, we think he would be doing good service to the would be doing good service to the sould be doined to the sould be sould be doined to the sould be soul lated articles as his actual sentiments and would be doing good service to the Hawaiians, as we believe that we do good service to the non-Hawaiian speaking community by in-terpreting into English the articles in question.

MR. MORENO appears to be wandering about the United States at his own sweet will, without reporting his proceedings in the past, or his plans for the future, neither does anyone know, we believe, what, if any steps have been taken to forward the education of the Hawaiian youths. He was last heard of, indirectly, at lew York, but it does not appear what was his business there or his route thence. It is just becoming an awkward time of year for Hawaiian youths to be carried to Europe for the first time in their lives. The fogs and gales of the Atlantic and the wintry weather in Europe will be very trying to constitutions inherited and reared in this tropical climate. As to the appropriation, we suppose it will be used up somehow, but we hope that a margin, sufficient in case of accident, to bring #### the youths home, may be kept in hand here. TOPICS OF THE DAY.

We desire to call attention to the following extract from the Australusian Sketcher that our heads of households, and employers of labor generally, may compare the wages which they have to pay here, with the rates paid in Victoria.

It should be borne in mind too, that the domestic servants, waiters, stockmen and shep-herds, &c., are for the most part trained and skilled in their various lines, more or less, that their wages are arranged by the year, so that mistresses of households or managers of slicep or cattle runs are not, so often as is the case here, fatigued and worried by training a thing of his business, turns his back on his first employer and demands double wages from the next, as the price of the experience he has gained at the expense of the former, while re-ceiving an exorbitant wage during apprentice-

A HINT as to how "the children of the land 'may help to lift themselves up. Oranges are offered in our streets at ten for a quarter; they are hawked about in the streets of presentation, though it is true that the Representatives met in consultation with the Minister of Foreign Affairs and the Minister of the Interior and lately of the Foreign Office profitable, Might not orange culture become also, was invited to attend, and did so. As to a paying industry here and employ a few score what took place at this consultation, we will not follow the Enlightener, but report what parently condemned to lie on their faces and really did take place. clause, and Mr. Bush admitted that the grievance anged were for the most part ground less, or frivolous, but justified himself for his share in the transaction, by pleading that his first duty was to support and endorse any act of his colleagues, this is the whole story of the meeting enlarged upon by the writer in the Express (native portion) which we translate elsewhere.

That evening Mr. Green resigned his commission, and his resignation was truly very "like an invitation to his colleagues to resign theirs." Here the writer stops for the time. We all know what followed—the present Ministers were installed and everyone felt that had been relieved at the removal of the friction which had for more than a month hampered public business, and checked private enterprise.

The rumors about the probability of His Majesty the King making a tour abroad, to the United States, and to Europe, or perhaps even farther, are still in circulation, but we do not attach any immediate importance to them. If the King be going abroad—a step which we deem highly impolitic at present—it is a matter which requires grave consideration, and should not be decided on in a hurry. First, involves the question of a Regency. On the former occasion of the absence from the King down of the Sovereign, his brother H.R.H. Prince William Leleiohoku was appointed Regent. In view of the possibility of a more extended tour, a more lengthened absence, we should advocate a "Council of Regency that he cost of serious public inconvenience. That the cost of serious public inconvenience to the most unwise, indeed impracticable, unless at the cost of serious public inconvenience to the most unwise, indeed impracticable, unless at the cost of serious public inconvenience to the most unwise, indeed impracticable, unless at the cost of serious public inconvenience to the most of the first of the

The first act of the Minister of Foreign Affairs dignity, curtail his liberty of action, and interfere with his prospects of enjoying a healthgring holiday.

If the King were to go abroad with some one discreet, trustworthy private secretary, it would be well. If he lay aside for the time the regal title and assume a semi-incognite, it would be better. If he stay at home and watch the course of events here, it would be best of all. We agree with the Advertiser that a domestic progress throughout his own Kingdom would be a fitting preparation—we should say substitute—for a foreign tour. At all events, the present is not a suitable time for either King or Minister to absent himself from the Islands.

The first act of the Minister of Foreign Affairs was to seek for a cause of grievance between the was to seek for a cause of grievance between the mass to seek for a cause of grievance between the mass to seek for a cause of grievance between the mass to seek for a cause of grievance between the mass to seek for a cause of grievance between the mass to seek for a cause of grievance between the mass to seek for a cause of grievance between the mass to seek for a cause of grievance between the mass to seek for a cause of grievance between the mass to seek for a cause of grievance between the mass to seek for a cause of grievance between the mass to seek for a cause of grievance between the mass to seek for a cause of grievance between the mass to seek for a cause of grievance between the mass to seek for a cause of grievance between the mass to seek for a cause of grievance between the mass to seek for a cause of grievance between the mass to seek for a cause of grievance between the mass to seek for a cause of grievance between the mass to seek for a cause of grievance hetween the minister of the Interior and the Foreign Officials who had been complained of. # Mauna Loa.

The following letters from correspondent give the very latest news up to the time of going press, regarding the outburst of Mauna Loa.

Editor Saronday Parss:—Since our last letter EDITOR SATURDAY PARSS:—Since our last letter there is nothing special about the crater of Mowknawdoeo on Manna Loa. Mr. Furneaux, the artist, has gone to Kilanea to see if it can be observed better there, and I think, intends to visit the flow. It is now reported to be within three miles of the Government road to Kau. We have not seen the flow for about four days, as there has been so much haze and smoke. We have been up each night but cannot get the slightest glimpse. The last we saw of it there was a flow towards Kau, and a small one towards Mauna Kea, but the flow towards Hilo had increased, as near as any one could tell, about two miles, and seemed to be several miles long; but no one apprehends any danger. Kilauea continues as active as ever. It was thought that it would be very quiet when the flow had commenced on the crater of Moknawsoweo. It has rained since yesterday and we are in hopes the smoke will disappear, so that we can see the flow again. The flow is supposed to be in about the same place where it has broken out before several times—as near as it can be located. 2. A. E.
